

Stennis...

During October, Stennis International Airport was utilized by 717 aircraft performing 2,794 operations.

Last year's figures were 1,520 operations by 320 aircraft.

Of the 1977 operations count, 62 were performed by military planes, 953 local, and 1,779 transient.

The transient or itinerant operations are doubly important to Stennis as when the magic total of 25,000 such operations (or 35,000 local) is reached, the airport can apply to Federal Aviation Administration to be designated as an official "Reliever Airport."

Another alternate to receive the designation is for 50 aircraft to be based at the field.

Only about a third of that number are based at Stennis due to the extreme limitations of apron tie-down and hangar spaces.

A letter from FAA, signed by Newton L. Taylor, chief, Airports District Office, received this month, says the primary function of a reliever airport is to relieve congestion at an air carrier airport by providing general aviation users with a suitable alternative.

Taylor indicates the location of Stennis Field is suited to this task and acknowledges that local traffic is approaching the 25,000 level, but points to the additional 10,000 per year local operations count needed to qualify.

Bourgeois knows the need and the means to satisfy the requirement but is hamstrung by the lack of facilities and methods of tapping revenues for their provision.

The airport is operating this fiscal year on a budget of $59,625.

Of this amount $29,625, or nearly half, is to be generated by Global from the sale of fuel and maintenance services, hangar and tie-downs, concessions, and so forth.

The balance, $30,000, is the county airport operating allocation, budgeted by the port commission.

Increased sales would result in the lessening of the county's fiscal responsibilities as far as airport operating account is concerned, but again restrictions prevent accomplishment.

As matters now stand Gulf Coast Aviation (GCA), the Fixed Base Operator (FBO), pays $500 per month (plus its own utilities) for the rent of the hangar. This is supplemented by payment of one percent of gross income, also to the airport.

In return GCA provides aircraft sales and flying services, rental aircraft, flight school, maintenance and repair services, rents hangar space and tie-downs, and so forth.

Global collects all monies from the sales of fuels (cash and credit cards), and provides overall promotion, operations, security, and management services.

Problems arise however due to equipment lacks forcing Global to abandon possible fuel sales or handle certain types of aircraft.

For example, large aircraft utilizing the facility cannot close up to the fuel dock (pumps) due to the number of aircraft being parked on the apron (in paid tie-down spaces), and their own size. A fuel tender, capable of servicing both gas and jet planes is not on site and therefore these aircraft must obtain fuel from alternate sources.

Cost of a new tender is estimated to be between $35,000 and $40,000, a factor not encouraging to the fuel supply company who are asking for a guaranteed sale of one million or more gallons per year before they will supply such equipment.

To generate the flow, Bourgeois is faced with attracting more aircraft to the field, and their utilization of Stennis as base, but to do that he must have additional hangar and apron space.

A dirt road is presently being roughed out to the south of the existing hangar building for possible expansion into a hangar area but such development is still in the future.

Bourgeois said he understands private investors are being asked to consider construction of "T-hangers" in this area, but as far as he knows none have yet committed in this direction.

Though admitting security is still not being provided on a 24 hour basis, the airport manager stated the best form of security for an airport was 24 hour operations.

"The potential here is so great it boggles the mind," Bourgeois allowed. He said Stennis Field has more traffic on "many days..." than does Gulfport-Biloxi Municipal Airport.

The projected income for the Gulfport facility is $175,000 for this fiscal year, meaning that Biloxi, Gulfport, and Harrison County, will have to come up with an additional $300,000, plus handle the retirement of about $220,000 in bond debts, Bourgeois claimed.

In speaking of the subsidy management fee supplied by the county, Bourgeois said it amounts to $30,000 but at a maximum rate of $2500 per month.

He said sales must be maintained to offset salaries of himself and his flight-line attendants, which amount to $39,350, plus $3,935 in taxes per year.

Other budgeted items, revealed by Wilson Webre, director, county port commission, are: utilities, $700; telephone, $900; travel and promotion, $3000; insurance, $2500; accounting, $1500; miscellaneous, $600; general and administrative, $1020; management fee (Global); $8887.50 (30 percent of gross profit fuel and oil sales, hangar rentals, etc.).

The budget as approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, projected a $2,767.50 deficit, a sum that if not offset by increased revenues (gas, oil, etc.) will be donated by Global from its management fee.

"This will ensure that funds required from the county will not exceed the $30,000," Webre explained.

Webre said he was very pleased with Global's continued interest in the airport, particularly as they had not yet made any money out of the deal, and that there is "no rhyme or reason for any complaints to be levelled against the operation."

Webre invited county taxpayers to go and "take a look..." at the airport with new industry building with its promise of jobs, and even an oil drilling rig fixing to go in alongside the main access road.

Townhouse...

"The truth of the matter is the city will derive income from this development and it might even cause taxes to be lowered," Englehorn said.

"But you can be sure this council is not going to tolerate any secret votes," Englehorn added.

The opposing residents, however, feel the additional city services required by the development will more than offset any additional revenues it may generate.

Opponents of the development contend if the zoning change is granted it will be the first time residential zoning has been broken in Bay St. Louis. The area residents feel a "dangerous precedent" will be set if the change is approved.

The developers said spot zoning is already underway in Bay St. Louis, but the opposition maintains "...there is no such thing as spot zoning here."

"The few small businesses in the neighborhood are existing under the grandfather clause," said one woman whose mother lives in a home on Beach Boulevard adjacent to the development.

Provisions in zoning laws which allow businesses in operation to remain when an area is initially zoned residential are commonly known as 'grandfather clauses.'

"It's almost a desecration for people to come into a small town and wreck historical values in a neighborhood," said another long-time resident of Kellar Street who also asked not to be identified.

"Citizens here have been given second-class treatment in favor of outside interests," she feels.

"We were treated very rudely by both councilmen and commissioners alike," she said of previous hearings on the matter.

"I'm used to dealing with gentlemen. I'm not accustomed to being treated rudely," she noted.

Some elderly residents of the area are reportedly taken ill due to the controversy generated by the proposed zoning change.

"These people—many of them have owned their homes over a long period of years—don't want to sell out, they don't want to move out and they don't want their neighborhood changed," another resident said.

"We're not opposed to progress, we just feel this neighborhood is not equipped to handle a development like this," she said.

"Persons seeking a zoning change are supposed to show good cause for the change, not just the profit motive," the resident said.

"And the burden of proof should rest with those seeking the change," she added.

Another resident is afraid the neighborhood will be congested with automobiles as a result. "The apartment residents won't be the end of it," she said, "they will have weekend guests and I doubt if I'll even have space for a guest to park near my home."

"The small children will no longer be safe on what was once a nice quiet street," a parent lamented.

"We can't believe the city fathers are doing this to us," the neighbors agree.

Classrooms...

Educational Finance Commission in Jackson will approve their share...we are living in hope at this time," McCullough said of proposed lunch room improvements at the Junior High.

"We have always been able to pass bond issues in our community," the superintendent stated in proposing a building program as the answer to the district's problems of overcrowding.

"Hancock County has an ammunition plant coming in which will employ some 2,000, and DuPont will hire about 850, and people are moving in all the time from New Orleans to escape the perils of big city life," Wilkinson said.

Judy Barrett of the Junior High told board members she can "only try to teach" because of the over-crowded conditions in the S. J. Ingram Building at that school.

A teacher from Waveland Elementary also complained of overcrowded conditions at that school.

McCullough insisted the school district administration is "well aware" of the need for additional space, and reiterated the need for a capital improvements bond issue.

Also at Monday's meeting, the board tabled a request by Mrs. Townsend for action on the issue of recognition of teacher organizations.

Mrs. Townsend said an open letter to board members by Wilkinson, president of the Bay St. Louis Federation of Teachers, seeking reversal of current board policy should be acted upon.

"I would rather see all teacher groups recognized than none at all," Mrs. Townsend said.

Board president Virginia Gex requested the matter be held in abeyance until next month's meeting since board member Robert Hamilton was absent from Monday's meeting.

"The board traditionally does not act on policy matters unless the full board is present," she said.

In other action, the board: -Received a report from the county Health Department citing lavatory facilities at North Bay Elementary as being in "poor" condition. McCullough said improvements are already underway at the school. Ratings at other schools in the district ranged from "good" to "very good."

-Received a report on teacher absenteeism from McCullough. The superintendent said the report is a positive reflection on the teachers. "We have a group of teachers who are on the job if they are not sick," he said.

-Approved docket items for the previous month totaling $28,603. -Received notification from McCullough that an evaluation report on the Senior High will come back from the printer's next week.

-Accepted an invitation from Waveland Elementary Principal James Baldrée to dine Nov. 17 "...in the quiet elegance of the school's cafeteria."

The board's next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 13.

Speeding rolling stock may again pose threat

Over the past few weeks an increasing number of speed violations have been clocked.

These violations are not on the highways and byways of Hancock County but once again along the main track of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

The violations, monitored by vehicles containing more than one person, are again being accompanied by the dangerous swaying of rolling stock as it passes over low spots in the track.

In July of last year, Bay St. Louis was subject to its second, major railroad accident in three months.

Prior to this event comment from all sections of the community concerning unlevel tracks, hollow ties, low spots, and the like, were frequently heard but apparently not by the railroad.

The second wreck in July tore up about a quarter of a mile of track and resulted in the rupture of a tank car valve. The tanker contained hexamethylene diamine solution, a gas not fatal in itself - but one that results in skin burns as the result of direct contact.

Following the accident, and a series of public representations, a meeting was staged between local political identities and interest groups, a railroad inspector of the Mississippi Public Service Commission, and L&N's division engineer.

This meeting resulted in a promise for complete rehabilitation of the track through the county.

The meeting also was told the municipalities intended to enforce speed limit ordinances of 30 miles per hour for all trains moving through the built up area.

Speed limit for trains inside the county but outside the city limits is 50 miles per hour, a rate deemed excessive by Beat One residents.

The track did receive considerable attention and the trains did slow down.

For weeks, while feeling ran high, L&N units moved through town with proper respect and, in most cases, maintained their in-county speed restriction.

At that time also media asked the railroad to earn the respect of its neighbors by the maintenance of a continued, safe operation.

This respect for its neighbors was sought by persons living adjacent to and in the vicinity of the L&N track throughout its length.

But, through one deed and another, including the quick thrust aside of any suggestion to restore passenger service - even on a limited basis, it was not maintained until, at least along the coast, an association was formed to relocate the tracks elsewhere.

Now, from Pensacola, comes the tragic news of deaths caused from gas escaping from a ruptured 33,000 gallon tank car containing amonia gas. In addition to the deaths, 20 other persons were treated at three hospitals.

This, seemingly, all the result of wrecks almost predicted in those neighborhoods.

Following the accident angry officials brought forth details of another, like but lesser incident that had resulted in a spill of amonia in downtown Pensacola.

The purpose of these words is not in any way to add to the Florida incidents, or rehash last year's wrecks here.

The purpose instead is to again remind the L&N of its promise to this county to retain and maintain a safe operation.

The condition of the track is again in need of attention at the low spots (and these can be spotted by simply watching a train pass through), and the speed limits are still posted.

It was at one time recommended the speed permitted for train transit be dropped by five miles per hour, per violation, until if necessary transit be stopped until an iron-clad guarantee of observance was obtained.

The drawbacks and legal questions arising out of such actions are obvious, but if the situation doesn't improve public reaction may soon shut the entire system down - completely.

Sportsmanship is what it is called

Having had an opportunity of covering 11 high school football games involving Bay High, Hancock North Central, St. Stanislaus, and Pass Christian, we have observed several things.

The tilt last Friday night between rival Pass Christian and Hancock North Central was a model game of sportsmanship. There were fewer flags in that contest than any we have covered this season. Coaches Bob Rogers and Irvin Favre should be congratulated on a job well done.

Team members of both Bay High and St. Stanislaus should also be congratulated on their conduct in the games we viewed this season and let us not forget coaches Billy Rhodes and Bill Poole.

Another thing we can look at is the records of the fine teams, Hawks, 10-0; Pirates, 8-2; Rock-A-Chaws, 4-5-1; Tigers 1-8. The fans really had something to cheer about if you add all the numbers together, you come up with a 23-15-1 record. This record doesn't really show the whole picture until you subtract six from the loss column because each team played each other during the regular season.

The team records of Hancock North Central and Pass Christian have been recognized and the Hawks will play Friday night in the Pickle Bowl in Wiggins and then in the Wendell Ladner Bowl the following week. The Pirates will be honored with an appearance in the Long Beach Jaycee Bowl Saturday night. So out of four teams in our areas you have participation by two in three post season bowls which should make any area proud.

To all the coaching staffs, football players, team managers, bands and directors, pep squads and school officials, thanks for your Friday night entertainment. Your sportsmanship has been recognized by us and I am sure by your loyal supporters.

For those of you whose team didn't fare well this season, they gave it everything they had and there will always be a next year.

Parents and fans of each school who showed their enthusiasm with your continued support by traveling to out of town as well as home games, we are sure, have been appreciated by the coaches and players.

Best of luck to the Hawks and Pirates in their upcoming Bowl invitations.

Steel price...

sunk as fishing reefs in the Gulf of Mexico.

"We are not unique in this position,"

Moses said.

"The entire nation is facing the same situation because of the sharp decline in the demand for U.S. steel," he said, adding, "Even Southern Scrap in New Orleans, one of the oldest and largest such firms in the South, has had to stop its work of salvaging a battleship for the U.S. Navy."

"Our company has spent more than three-quarters of a million dollars in Hancock County during the past two years," the executive continued, "and we have been a real boon to the economy."

"It is our plan to resume full scale operation at Port Blenville as soon as the economy warrants," Moses emphasized.

Moses said work at the local yard is continuing on a very limited basis on a temporary basis until the economy improves.

Eleven persons were reported working at the yard later this week, and a total of six were on duty last Monday, including yard manager Burt Padgett, his assistant, a secretary and three guards.

Wilson Webre, director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission which administers the Port Blenville Industrial Park, said this week International has completed a three-year temporary lease-purchase option and is now owner of its site in the park.

Webre said International has paid a monthly rental of $3,000 on its 45.5-acre site during the past three years, with 90 percent of the charges applied to the $182,000 purchase price on the site.

"These leases are tempered by covenants which provide for acts of God or slides in the economy," Webre said, adding, "They have met their obligation to the county."

Under the latest agreement with the commission, International has six months to build a permanent structure on the site.

Moses said those employees laid-off last week were released subject to recall.

Rest rooms in stores

This is to voice my opinion on the department and grocery stores that do not have public rest rooms.

I was Christmas shopping Monday evening in "Our Shopping Center," when my little boy, who is almost two had to use the rest room.

As you know, there are no public rest rooms in these stores.

I am trying to potty train him so I asked a girl if we could use the rest room.

For awhile people had been using this one at this particular store.

She told me no it was for employees only.

This made me very mad. It was either let him wet his pants or take him outside. I took him outside and decided to write this letter.

I think if people are kind and nice enough to shop at these stores that they should provide public rest rooms.

Dear Sir:

Let's all Gulf Coast residents, especially those who live near the L&N Railroad tracks, petition our officials and Governmental Safety agencies to take immediate, firm and positive action to ask said railroad to cease and desist further use of these rail tracks through this area until we can be assured that all safety precautions have been taken and followed to the letter to prevent another Pensacola.

We have had our railroad accidents in Hancock County and other mishaps in this area, of a similar nature. Preventive action is called for, not more rhetoric, plus excuses.

Mormons back

"Smoke Out"

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saint, long known for its anti-smoking position, is supportive of the American Cancer Society's continuing program of educating the public as to the dangers of smoking.

On November 17, the ACS is staging what it calls the "Great American Smoke Out." Smokers everywhere are being encouraged to give up smoking for that day.

The Church, in backing the ACS efforts, goes a step further and encourages smokers to not only quit smoking for a day but for the rest of their lives.

Years ago, the Mormon's anti-smoking position was pretty much pooh-poohed by others who looked upon it as strictly a theological prohibition.

In recent years, however, medical science and other elements of society have dismissed the religious aspects of non-smoking crusades and spotlighted, instead, perhaps the most basic concern of all human beings - their personal health.

Letters to the Editor

The Mormons have been the subject of considerable medical research over the years, particularly in the United States, where nearly three-fourths of the Church's four million members reside.

Results of the research have raised some interesting questions, questions being asked not only by such organizations as the American Cancer Society, but also by the media and by the public.

Bill Davidson, writing for "Family Circle" magazine (January 1976), asked why do Mormons have "significantly lower cancer rate, fewer heart attacks, less diabetes and other devastating diseases than the rest of us?"

He said that in an attempt to determine why Mormons are comparatively resistant to catastrophic illness, medical researchers, who look beyond theological and metaphysical explanations, have become convinced that "the answers lie somewhere in the lifestyle" of the Mormons.

California physicist Dr. James E. Enstrom is just one of several medical researchers who have concluded that the Mormons' way of life is the major contributing factor to their dramatically lower incidence of cancer and other major killers, as compared to the general population.

Dr. Enstrom summed up his research by proclaiming, "They must be doing something right."

The "lifestyle" referred to in the cancer study includes not only the Church's prohibition of smoking, drinking alcoholic beverages, coffee, tea and other damaging stimulants, but also encompasses the Mormons' rosier than usual outlook on life in general.

It was in 1833 that the first Mormon prophet, Joseph Smith, told his followers that he had received divine revelation concerning dietary matters. That revelation, as recorded in the Church's Doctrine and Covenants, Section 89, promises that all "who properly take care of their bodies" "...shall run and not be weary, and shall walk and not faint."

said. Webre said Hocket released his option with an understanding a comparable site will be available to him in the future.

Bergeron said his firm is putting the finishing touches on plans for the Hancock County expansion, and added, "...we're very optimistic it will fly."

Construction on the Bergeron facility will begin during the first 30 to 45 days of 1978, the vice president said.

Once operational, Bergeron said, the yard will employ some 40 people on a first year payroll estimated to be at least $500,000.

"We maintain a policy of hiring locally wherever we operate," Bergeron said.

"The atmosphere and environment in Hancock County is very good and attractive to us," the executive stated.

"We are a people-oriented business," he said, "and we are very excited about this move to Hancock County."

"We are very happy to be coming in there," Bergeron said from his St. Bernard main offices.

"Our officials are delighted with the reception we have received from the people in Hancock County, especially those people associated with the Port and Harbor Commission," Bergeron said.

Bergeron Industries is the builder of the steam-powered paddlewheeler Natchez, the first such vessel to be built up to that time in 50 years.

In addition to barges, Bergeron Industries builds tug boats and operates drydocking facilities servicing the inland waterway industry, Bergeron said.

"We are moving quite rapidly," the company spokesman said of his firm's growth. "We are currently expanding our shipbuilding and repair facility at Braithwaite, south of New Orleans in Plaquemine Parish."

The company is also involved in the oil and gas industry, both inland and offshore, he said. The company is international in scope with its operations extending into South America and the North Sea.

Further extension of Bergeron Industries includes a barge facility on the Mississippi River at mile post 80.7, south of New Orleans.

"We are one of the largest, if not the largest, barge builders on the Gulf of Mexico from Texas to Florida," Bergeron stated.

Bergeron said the Port Blenville facility's manpower needs will fall primarily in the skills of welders, shipfitters, sandblasters, crane operators and painters.

Petition...

board.

Another group--parents of sixth graders at North Bay and represented by Williams LeBlanc--aired grievances against Thaddeus Williams, spelling and social studies teacher.

"Our kids are coming home sick and upset," LeBlanc said in denouncing alleged threats voiced by Williams against pupils who fail to complete assignments.

"I stayed up with him four hours and I couldn't even spell all the words on the assignment," LeBlanc said of homework assignments given his son by Williams.

LeBlanc said Williams has exhibited a vindictive attitude toward the children in his class.

Following the circulation of a petition among sixth grade parents protesting Williams' severe academic requirements, LeBlanc said, the teacher sent students whose parents had signed the petition to the principal's office.

LeBlanc told board members Principal Sills sent the children back to Williams with the message, "Tell Mr. Williams not to worry about it."

LeBlanc presented to the board a list of spelling words assigned by Williams which LeBlanc alleged are "college level."

When LeBlanc asked board members if they could spell some of the words on the list, one board member replied, "I wouldn't even attempt it."

Another parent from the sixth grade group presented a social science test given by Williams and alleged to be "unreasonably" difficult.

"Parents are spending two and three hours in the evening trying to get their children prepared for these tests--it is impossible," LeBlanc told the board.

The sixth grade parents said another petition is being circulated protesting the disciplinary methods of fourth grade teacher Rose Lewis who allegedly is smacking children's hands with layers of rulers taped together.

Following a query by Board President Virginia Gex about any other complaints to be registered, other parents filed complaints against a Bay High bus driver who reportedly refuses to allow students to talk on his bus, and Bay High teacher Ken Harder who allegedly addresses his students with abusive and harsh names.

Parents of the children in the Williams classes said they were fearful for the safety of their children because of the alleged "revengeful" nature of the teacher.

Board members urged parents to send their children to school the following day (Tuesday) and assured them they had no reason to fear for their safety.

The board and Superintendent J. D. McCullough told the irate parents that all problems presented to them would be expeditiously handled.

McCullough and board members noted after the meeting that Monday's presentation of grievances directly to the school board by parents was an extraordinary procedure, one requested in these cases due to the personnel involved in the normal chain of command.

Formal policy of the school board calls for parental complaints to be presented first in writing to the principal of the school in question, the superintendent pointed out.

He said the next step is for the parent to present a written complaint, including written answers from the principal, to the superintendent.

"If a parent has not received satisfaction at that point, he may appeal his case to the school board," the superintendent quoted from the policy manual.

However, a ground swell of parental dissatisfaction in the district apparently prompted the board to hear the myriad of grievances in an informal manner Monday night.

None of the teachers or principals named in the complaints were present to hear, answer or discuss the parental grievances.

HEALTH TIPS

From the American Medical Association
NOSEBLEED

How do you stop a nosebleed? Almost everyone has his own pet remedy. Remember when someone told you to insert a small wad of paper under the upper lip? After awhile the bleeding stopped. Of course, the paper probably didn't help and the bleeding would have stopped anyway.

The American Medical Association offers several approaches that might help to curb nosebleeds -

Have the victim sit upright, unless he is faint.

Apply large, cold, wet towels over the face, nose and back of the head and neck.

Pinch the nostrils together. The bleeding point often is near the tip of the nose.

Keep the victim quiet. Avoid coughing, blowing the nose or walking about during or soon after a nosebleed.

Even talking should be avoided. Breathe through the mouth.

If bleeding is severe or prolonged, see a physician.

Wiggins tilt is Friday

Hawks seek Pickle victory

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Undeclared Hancock North Central will face Vanceave in the Pickle Bowl Friday night in Wiggins.

The Hawks winning a squeaker from rival Pass Christian, had to do it by coming from a 14-0 deficit midway in the second quarter last Friday night, scored two touchdowns with a very important two point conversion and a one point conversion to give them a 15-4 victory.

"It was the best game I was ever involved in, one of those that held you in suspense until the last second. The Pirates were as good as we thought they were. Coach Bob Rogers and his coaching staff does a fine job. Pass could have won the game, it just happened to go our way," commented coach Irvin Favre, on Monday.

In talking further about the Hawk victory coach Favre had high praises for quarterback Vincent Adams, "I haven't seen a player play offense and defense as well for four years, Ted Williams was another Hawk quarterback that could go both ways. It was a great effort from all the players, you've got to get the players that want to play, the Hawks this year want to play."

"Vanceave is another tough opponent, I would rate them with the fine team from Pass Christian. They have been one of the three top leaders in the Pascagoula River Conference for the past eight years," coach Favre said in sizing up Vanceave.

"We are proud of our team and we think it is an honor to play in the Pickle Bowl. Vanceave is real quick and stunt a lot. They are sound defensively and are real tough. The Hawks will be ready to play Friday night," said coach Favre at the end of an interview Friday.

Hawkettes in second victory

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Hawkettes from Hancock North Central have opened the 1977-78 season with two consecutive victories. They defeated Harrison Central by one point last Saturday night and were 58-38 victors over Stone High Tuesday night.

Coach Charlie Grantham's high post Sheila Ladner at 6'2" led the scoring with 19 points, closely followed by 8'0" Shannon Ladner, playing low post, hitting the nets for 15. Other Hawkettes scoring against Stone were Joye Nell Lee, 9; Shelly Dedaux, 2; Janet Ladner, 4; Janet Necaise, 2; Sheila L. Ladner, 2; Sherrie Ladner, 5. Leading scorer for Stone County was Zeldia Johnson with 17 points. The Hawkettes finished last season with a 34-2 record, tops for a girls team on the Gulf Coast.

Hawks seeking two more home games

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock North Central basketball coach Roland Ladner said yesterday the Hawks would like to schedule two more home games for the 1977-78 season. The Hawks are willing to play any boys high school and junior high teams.

The open dates are Nov. 26, Jan. 23 or 4, 31 or Feb. 3. Any team interested can contact coach Ladner at 255-7142.

The 1977-78 Hawks opened their season last Saturday night with a visit to Harrison Central and were defeated, 76-57. Coach Ladner said that they were just not ready for Harrison Central.

Tuesday night the Hawks lost to Stone County, 74-63. The Hawks were in the game until the final minutes when Stone pulled away.

"Early fouls hurt us in the second half. The game could have gone either way as there

Christmas decorations mark gardener meeting

Christmas decorations, plans and projects highlighted the meeting of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club last Thursday, Nov. 10. Guest speaker, Mrs. Shirley Williams of The Flower Shop in Bay St. Louis, delighted members as she showed them how to make wreaths and other Christmas decorations for the home.

There will be Christmas Hat and Corsage Show at the next meeting on Dec. 8. Attractive brochures listing rules and themes of the show were distributed to members present. Mrs. John Holmes asked members to bring small plants to the next meeting, these to be presented to Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Herman Mazarakis, president, announced that the Bay-Waveland Garden Club had been awarded First Place for their Scrapbook in Horticulture Magazine's national annual contest. Mrs. O. Duke, Gulf Coast Council Chairman of Civic Development (HANDS) announced that our club had won Second Place for last year's HANDS project in the contest sponsored by Sears.

Mrs. Lelyn Nybo presented an artistic design arrangement for criticism by Mrs. Paul Miller. Mrs. Nybo also reported on the State Garden Clubs Conservation Camp meeting which she attended in Vicksburg, Mississippi last week.

Mrs. John Newkirk showed plants that she had grown from citrus seeds, a pineapple top, and an avocado seed and gave pointers on how to plant and care for them.

Miss Regina Blaise gave an interesting talk on the American robin, and told how it was given its name by the early settlers.

Mrs. Clifford Gaudin announced that she had asked Mayor Bennett of Bay St. Louis and Mayor Longo of Waveland to be judges for the annual Christmas Decoration Contest to be held on Dec. 19, and they had both graciously accepted.

Harvill outdoors

By Donald Harvill

The salt water fishing still seems to be holding out, good numbers of specks and rat reds are still being caught in most of our area. This is usually about the best time of the year for speck fishing here, but not as many people fish this time of the year because of the colder weather and because of the opening of most hunting seasons.

The fresh water fishing is just coming into its own, the bass fishing is really starting to pick up, as is the bream fishing.

My favorite hunting season opens this Sat., Nov. 19, and my favorite season is Deer Season. I can guarantee you that on Saturday the woods are going to look just about like Down Town New Orleans
during the Christmas shopping days. There will be all kinds of dummies running around in trucks, cars and what have you, shouting on their CB's trying to find their muts, and they'll be asking you all kinds of questions like,
"have you seen my bluetick or walker."

How is anybody supposed to know whether they've seen somebody's dog, there's probably just a couple of hundred or so walkers and blueticks chasing the poor deer and scaring them half to death. All I have to say to the dog hunters is, the only way you can kill a deer with a CB is to strangle him with the microphone cord, but a gun works better, if you can keep it untangled from the Mike long enough.

A lot of local hunters will be glad to know that the duck season opens in the eastern section of Louisiana this Saturday. There are a lot of local hunters that regularly hunt ducks in the Louisiana marshes.

I hear that Richard Schaffer, Frank Ladner, Gary
Griffin, Jim Mayfield, Earl Fayard, W. J. Cameron and Randy McIver had a good dove shoot this past weekend around the Kiln. I also heard that Randy McIver had a little trouble getting the shot to go where he wanted it to.

He claims that the gun was at fault, but we all know better than that.

Leo Moran, Johnny Bufkin and three other local hunters returned last week from a combination mule deer and elk hunt in Colorado. Out of the five hunters, three deer were taken. From what I understand they got to see a lot of snow along with plenty of other game animals.

PEARLINGTON - The
freshwater fishing is still good. Bass fishing in the river is extremely good. Lots of bass were caught Saturday.
One of my regular customers caught his limit of bass, two weighed five pounds apiece.
The fishing in salt water has

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK—Maurice Graham of Gulfport, with a fine mess of specks, about 105 pounds to be exact.
Graham made his haul last week while fishing in the Jourdan River. He is being assisted with his catch by Jimmie Poillon, of Joe's Bayou Marina.

JOE'S BAYOU - We had plenty of good fishing over the weekend, a lot of people were fishing and caught a lot of nice specks. The water is clear, the tide has been unusually low because of the winds, but fishing is still good. We still have bait. (Mrs. Allie
Cospelich, Joe's Bayou Marina).

ANSLEY - The fishing is good, rat reds are biting well at the mouth of the river, some running between two and four pounds. John Johnson and Joe Jones from Picayune caught 40 rat reds Monday. Mr.
Nastasi and party from Hammond caught one doz. rat reds. Some people did some Sunday trolling for specks in the river. A few sheepshead are still being caught. (Mrs.
Toxie Hall, LaFrances Fishing Camp).

Pirates to tangle with Wildcats

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Pirates of Pass Christian, with an 8-2 record, will play in the Long Beach Jaycee Bowl against the Columbia Wildcats Saturday.

This season's two defeats have been by a total of only three points for the Pirates. The Pirates lost to undefeated Singing River Conference leader d'Iberville by two points, and Hancock North Central by one.

Coach Bob Rogers in commenting on the Pirates 15-14 loss to undefeated Hancock North Central stated Monday, "The Hawks did a real fine job preparing for us."

"We were ready for them too. We beat ourselves. We have a fine football team this season."

The team Coach Rogers Pirates face in the Long Beach

Jaycee bowl are another "AA" team, the Wildcats with a score of 7-3.

"We are going to work real hard to get ourselves ready for Columbia. We came out of our last contest with a few bruises and by game time Saturday, we should be 100 percent," Coach Rogers stated.

Some confusion over Deer season opening

Exactly what is necessary to hunt deer in Mississippi when the first regular gun season opens this Saturday morning? From the phone calls and inquiries received by the State Game and Fish Commission, it appears that some hunters are unsure about licenses and when they can hunt antlerless deer.

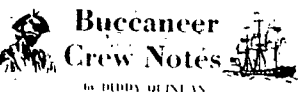

To hunt deer this year with regular guns, hunters must first have a hunting license or a combination hunting and fishing license and a deer and turkey license. This is all that is required if they are just going to hunt buck deer," according to Wildlife Coordinator Bob Griffin.

"Some hunters are confused over hunting antlerless deer this year. As in past years, only certain sections of the state are open for antlerless hunting, and only on certain days," Griffin said.

"Those hunting antlerless deer in these areas during these special times will need a hunting license or a combination hunting and fishing license, a deer and turkey license, and the Special Mississippi Deer Tags, available for $6.

This first deer season opening this Saturday, Griffin said, will run through December 1, and will be "bucks only" hunting. During this first season, no areas will be open for antlerless hunting.

There are many programs scheduled to begin at Buccaneer Park soon. These programs are open to anyone and are free of charge. Some programs may involve materials, the cost of which will be borne by the participants. However, these will be the only costs, and will be kept to a minimum.

The program schedule is: Mondays, 7:30 p.m., Movies, to start Nov. 14; Tuesdays, 5:30 p.m., Ladies Exercises, to start Nov. 29; Wednesdays, 7:30 p.m., Basketmaking, to start Dec. 7; Fridays, 9:30 a.m., Hobby Horticulture, Dec. 2.

Every Saturday and Sunday, scheduled activities, such as tournaments, crafts, games, and nature hikes take place.

The public is also invited to take part in these events at no charge.

This weekend's activities will include:

1. Saturday night movie "The Amish-A People of Preservation;" 2. Sunday morning nature hike, followed by leaf printing on Sunday afternoon.

The Big Difference

Off-street parking accommodations, a formal chapel, a special car for the family - it's little extras such as these that add up to the big difference in Riemann-Fahey service.

IT is a monstrous problem. With even more monstrous consequences in the future if we don't hurry up and do something.

You see, IT's not your run-of-the-mill, B-grade movie monster. IT is most definitely for real.

IT is energy waste-fulness.

This problem really hits home.

Right this very moment, IT is hard at work, squandering energy in homes all over South

Mississippi. The cause is inadequate insulation. In roofs, walls, doors, windows, you name it. The less energy-efficient your home, the more IT comes after you.

But IT does a lot more than gobble up our dwindling energy supplies. IT burns dollars with a vengeance, too.

How to save energy. And money.

Hancock Bank has just what you need to stop IT. Handy Money. Right now we're giving special consideration to loan requests for home improvements that will make homes more energy-efficient. But you'll save more than energy. You'll save money, too. In fact, tests have shown that you can save as much as $5,000 in fuel costs over the life of your home with proper insulation.

So come get some Handy Money and make your home more energy-efficient.

Let's stop IT. Before IT stops us.

Double ring ceremony unites first Senior Citizens couple

Mrs. Margaret McAdams Punch, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lee McAdams of New Orleans, and Mr. Charles Andrew Ladner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Ladner of Bay St. Louis, were married at 1:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 11, at the Valena C. Jones Senior Citizens Center.

Honorable Larry Bennett, mayor of Bay St. Louis, performed the double ring ceremony. Mr. Louis Burghard of Bay St. Louis played piano and organ and Mr. Fred Horn of Waveland sang favorite songs of the bride and groom.

Mrs. Ladner was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lee McAdams of New Orleans. She was attended by Mrs. Sam Melito of New Orleans as matron of honor. The best man was Joseph Petta of New Orleans and Bay St. Louis.

The bride wore a blue lace bodice with acordion pleated skirt and shoes to match. She carried a bouquet of nosegay and white carnations with blue baby breath and a white orchid in the center.

The matron of honor wore a two-piece aqua knit suit and carried a yellow nosegay corsage.

A reception followed the ceremonies at the Valena C. Jones Center with some 150 guests in attendance.

The hall was decorated with white bells and streamers. A white crocheted cloth covered the table where silver candelabra with white candles flanked crystal champagne glasses engraved with the names of the couple. The pink and white wedding cake was complemented with a crystal candy dish filled with pink and white mints.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Rose Edwards, Mrs. Eve McDonald, and Rev. Hall, all of the Bay St. Louis Senior Citizens Center, and Mrs. Larry Bennett.

Also in attendance were Mr. C.J. Ladner of Bay St. Louis, son of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Bock of New Orleans, sister and brother-in-law of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Lee McAdams, all of New Orleans, brothers and sisters-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Pauline Redding, sister of the groom; Mrs. Patricia Wilson Palermo, niece of the groom; and Mr. Sam Melito, of New Orleans, husband of the matron of honor.

The bride will wear a red pants suit on a wedding trip this week to Pensacola, Fla. The couple will reside at 524 Main St., Bay St. Louis.

BAZAAR

The Senior Citizens of Hancock County held their annual bazaar at the Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday, Nov. 9th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The bazaar is one of the outstanding events of the year. The Seniors who participated worked diligently to make their annual bazaar a huge success.

The bazaar is an event that gives each Senior a chance to exploit their talents.

Examples are ceramics, art class (oil painting), drawing (sketches and water coloring), quilting class with the beautiful quilt they made, Christmas class, with a variety of colorful Christmas items; horticulture class with many original ideas for plants.

The Senior Citizens Clubs from Pearlinton, Waveland and Bay St. Louis presented many items for sale.

The Day Care Seniors displayed with pride, the many articles they have made in their workshops.

Each Senior, regardless of the items they made in class or at home, did an excellent job. To all the Seniors who took part in this bazaar, I say with great pride, that we have the most talented and hard working group of Seniors in the State of Mississippi. Hang loose gang, the recognition you deserve will some day become a reality.

WEDDING

Pianist for the wedding was our good friend Louis Burghard. Yours truly dedicated two songs to the happy couple, namely, Can't help falling in love with you, and, Because.

The room was filled with Seniors and friends who congratulated the couple on a happy and successful marriage.

We at the center and the many Seniors who attended will remember this event with happy memories for a long time to come.

Smoking danger is contest topic

"Smoking and Health" is the subject of a state-wide essay contest sponsored by the Mississippi Lung Association, announced Donald M. Dana, Jr. of Long Beach, president of the Christmas Seal voluntary health organization.

Announcements outlining rules and regulations have been sent to all Mississippi schools. Any regularly enrolled 8th grade student is eligible to participate. Eight grade teachers are asked to select two essays in local classrooms as preliminary winners and send them to Jackson for state-wide judging. Deadline for entry is November 28, 1977.

All entries will be read and judged as to content, accuracy of statements, originality and effectiveness for presentation on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. Winners will be announced in mid-December.

Two prizes will be awarded. One $25.00 U.S. Savings Bond will be presented to the 8th grade girl student and one $25.00 Savings Bond to the 8th grade boy student whose essay is judged as state winner. The two winners will be invited to appear on "The People's Business," ETV program as guest of Mr. Jack Switzer. IT'S O.K. TO SPRAY!

SPRAY PAINTS
ECOLOGICALLY SOUND!

Everybody's concerned about the environment these days, but when it comes to the fluorocarbon controversy, people are confused. What's safe, and what's not? Well, spray can products made with fluorocarbons may soon go the way of DDT, but not popular spray paints. They're okay!

Nearly 97% of spray paints are made without the fluorocarbon gases suspected of damaging the Earth's vital ozone layers. Some brands, like Krylon, began phasing out the chemical as early as the 1960's and are now 100% fluorocarbon-free.

Push-button paints, once a curiosity, have become an indispensable fix-up tool for the avid do-it-yourselfer. Even all-thumbs types who formerly avoided a paint brush like the plague, have been converted by the ease and convenience of spray painting. Consider this quick check-list of spray paint pluses:

- Requires virtually no skill or technique to use!
- Eliminates the mess, mixing, and clean-up associated with brush painting!
- Makes possible unusual decorative effects—rainbow designs—to subtle color gradations—hard to obtain with a brush!
- Can be finger-touched within five minutes and dries hard within two hours!
- Gets into tight, small areas that escape ordinary brushwork: wicker chairs,

- iron railings, louvered shutters, etc.
- Gives smooth, even finishes free of brushmarks.
- Easier to apply to metals and plastics than conventional brushwork.
- As economical as brush painting—sometimes even less expensive!
- Spray paints are alive and well—and that's good news for householders everywhere!

United Way review (10)

Hancock County Boys Home

By CHARLES CARTER, JR.
Most of these boys have seen more, suffered more and been through more in a few years than the average person can expect to endure in a lifetime. They have been neglected, abused, and in some instances, battered. Their parents either can't or won't provide for them the most basic necessities of life. So, what happens to kids like these? Do you just throw a youngster out in the streets? Do you send them to training school or put them in jail. In the past, this was done much too often. A relatively new alternative for children in these circumstances is the group home. The Hancock County Youth Court, with the support of the Hancock County United Way operates one of five Group Homes for boys in Mississippi. The group home provides the boys, ranging in age from twelve to seventeen, a homelike atmosphere. Group

Home parents look after their basic needs, and act as substitute parents. The boys are registered in the local school system and must attend school regularly. The home operates much the same as a large family. Each boy is required to take care of his own room. Chores around the house and grounds are alternated so that each boy has a responsibility. The ultimate objective of the group home is to place the boy back in his own family. Until this objective is reached, the boy is given every opportunity to experience a wholesome, well-ordered, structured environment.

The group home alternative is producing dividends. In the relatively short history of the Hancock County Youth Court-sponsored group home, only three boys have had to be placed in other facilities. From a financial point of view, it costs only a fraction of the money to house a boy in a group home as it does to keep him in a training school. The Hancock County Youth Court provides professional counseling to boys who need it, and one-on-one tutoring for those who have scholastic problems. If it were not for the support of the Hancock County United Way, the group home would surely be closed. The financial support of the people of Hancock County is needed now, more than ever, as an increasing number of applications for admittance to the home, are being received by the Court.

It is of untold value to have such a wonderful facility in which to place boys that so badly need the help and guidance of a family atmosphere. Hancock County is indeed fortunate to have a group home—and the group home is fortunate to have the help of the citizens of Hancock County through their generosity to the Hancock County United Way.
